

Digital Press Printing

Abstract of the Disclosure

A liquid toner digital press imaging composition contains, in addition to the toner, a security ingredient which is a reactant reactable in use with a complementary reactant carried by a printable substrate, so as to be detectably retained in or on the substrate in the event of fraudulent alteration or removal of the image produced by the toner.